Community News You Can Use

- Ten people attended a gathering at Riddle and Wallace Soda Shop on Tuesday to express their opinions about holding a referendum on whether the mayor of Athens should be elected. The meeting was called by Councilman Dick Pelley. Pelley asked those present to help collect signatures on a petition to put the referendum on the November ballot. Pelley says a total of 336 signatures are needed. If the referendum is on the ballot and is approved, it would then have to be passed by the State Legislature.
