◆ FIRST RESPONDERS HONORED BY THP

The first responders who rescued Tennessee Highway Patrol Sergeant Lowell Russell were honored Monday at the THP Headquarters in Knoxville. Two EMT's from Athens--Fred Leslie and Kristi Graham--were recognized, along with two Knoxville police officers. They worked together to save Sgt. Russell's life by pulling him from his burning patrol car on March 13th. A tractor-trailer rig slammed into Russell's patrol car which was parked along Interstate 40 in Knoxville. The two EMT's from Athens, employees of AMR ambulance service, witnessed the accident as they were returning to McMinn County after taking a patient to Knoxville and stopped to help.

THP Colonel Tracy Trott makes presentations to EMT's Fred Leslie on the left, and to Kristi Graham. (Photos Special to the MORNING FAX)
