NATIONAL & INTERNATIONAL NEWS

- ◆ President Obama has declared Syria a national security threat that must be answered with a military strike. In doing so, he may be warning Americans that the leaders of Iran and North Korea may get the same medicine as Syrian head Bashar Assad.
- ◆ Ariel Castro's family has claimed his body. Investigators are trying to determine how a man, who was perhaps Ohio's most notorious prisoner, managed to hang himself with a bedsheet while in protective custody. Castro held three women captive in his home for a decade. He committed suicide Tuesday night.
- ◆ The former vice president in charge of finishing the Unit 2 reactor at the Watts Bar Nuclear Plant has pleaded guilty to illegally sending money to Iran and lying on his tax returns. Masoud Bajestani faces up to five years in prison. He also agreed to forfeit $600,000 dollars.
- ◆ The Collegedale, TN, city commission made news recently when it approved employee family health insurance coverage for same-sex couples. Now, the city commission has voted to extend health insurance coverage to unmarried couples of the opposite sex. To qualify, they must have lived together for at least six months and must prove that they either own property jointly or, at least, pay the utility bill jointly.
