State and Local News

◆ HASLAM MOVES TO PROTECT MILITARY

Governor Bill Haslam has announced new safety measures and a faster handgun permit process for members of the military. The governor has already ordered soldiers in storefront recruiting locations to move to local National Guard armories. The governor is also streamlining the process for getting handgun permits. Active members of the military, including National Guard and Reserve members, may forgo taking a state handgun training course when applying for a handgun carry permit if they have completed at least four hours of handgun training in the military. Gov. Haslam says the state's mobile driver testing units will be used in the coming weeks to make applying for handgun carry permits even simpler. He says the mobile units will travel to areas of the state where members of the military work or serve so they can apply for permits and be fingerprinted for background checks on site.
