Dental Hygiene Moving to TWU

Following the acquisition of the Hiwassee College Dental Hygiene program this past spring, TWU is expediting the process of moving the program from Madisonville to Athens. TWU has completed an agreement to lease the former McSpadden Furniture building on White Street, and renovations are already underway to turn the space into a state-of-the-art location. If all goes as planned, TWU will begin using the facility in January. Approximately 30 dental hygiene students, plus faculty and staff, will be moved to Athens. Mitch Miller is overseeing the renovation of the space in the former McSpadden Furniture building. The new dental hygiene program at TWU will also provide a Dental Clinic, which will see a myriad of patients, insured or not, allowing students to learn through hands on experience. It will allow community members to receive outstanding, personal preventive dental care as well.
