Shooting Incident - Behind Athens Walmart

The City of Athens Police Department responded to the local hospital in reference to a shooting incident Wednesday. Officers made contact with nurses and advised they had a female patient with an apparent gunshot wound to her lower extremities. Upon arrival officers made contact with a male subject who stated he was with the female when the shooting occurred. The Patrol Division turned the scene over to Detectives with the Special Services Division. The case is active and still under investigation. The shooting stemmed from an argument between the male and female and alcohol was likely a factor in this incident. The shooting occurred in the back parking lot of the Athens Walmart, which was contained to inside the vehicle, right as Walmart was opening up Wednesday morning. Officers and Walmart's Loss Prevention team made sure that this was an isolated incident, and no patrons were in danger. Both parties involved in the incident were not affiliated with Walmart. The female victim has been transported to a local trauma center for further care. "I am proud of the quick response by the Patrol division and the information they were able to obtain on a hectic scene. The information was relayed to Detectives and a person of interest was detained quickly. This communication between the two divisions played a crucial role in locating and apprehending the suspect within minutes of the shooting. Our thoughts and prayers go out to both parties involved in this unfortunate incident," stated Lieutenant Witt. For more information, please contact the Athens Police Department, Chief Fred Schultz at 423-744-2730.

State and National News

◆ The rape of a child is one of the most heinous crimes someone can commit, but does the perpetrator deserve the death penalty? Rep. William Lamberth of Portland, who also serves as House Majority Leader, says yes. Lamberth introduced legislature that would make the death penalty a sentencing option if the accused was over the age of 18 and the victim was under the age of 12. If the bill becomes law, it will likely face stiff legal challenges. In 2008, the United States Supreme Court ruled that the death penalty for those convicted of raping a child should be deemed unconstitutional. But Rep. Lamberth thinks, with a more conservative high court currently seated, they could get a different outcome.

◆ State Representative Jason Zachary of Knoxville, has filed a controversial bill seeking to make "trafficking" a minor for an abortion illegal in Tennessee. HB 1895, known as the "abortion trafficking of a minor" bill, was filed by Zachary's staff on Monday, the anniversary of when Roe v. Wade was passed. According to the text of the bill, any adult who "recruits, harbors, or transports a pregnant unemancipated minor," for a "criminal abortion," helps that minor obtain abortion-inducing medication, or "conceals an act constituting a criminal abortion" could be charged with a Class C Felony. The bill states that it is not a defense if the pregnant minor consented to the abortion. The bill also does not include any exclusions for pregnancies caused by incest, rape, or include any protection for adults who were assisting a pregnant minor who faced abuse or neglect by their parent or guardians.

◆ Here's some good news: The Tennessee Department of Transportation or TDOT began repairing potholes on East Tennessee roadways caused by the recent snow storm. AND BY THE WAY....If your car is damaged by a pothole, you can report it to TDOT by calling 833-TDOT-FIX (836-8349).
